

ISO 27001 certification will demonstrate to your customers and stakeholders your commitment to managing information safely and securely.

What is ISO 27001?

ISO 27001 is an internationally recognised standard governing information security. It sets a framework to ensure that an organisation's information security is appropriate for their needs and the needs of their clients. ISO 27001 certification is essential for protecting your most vital assets.

Why choose Kindus?

If you're new to the standard it can be hard to know how it should be applied to your circumstances. Kindus can help prepare your company for ISO 27001 accreditation. Our team of ISO 27001 consultants have plenty of experience in guiding companies from the very beginning all the way through to accreditation. Achieving accreditation involves creating a range of documentation and policies, implementing technology and training staff. Kindus' consultants will do this quickly, with minimal disruption to staff, no matter where your company is located.

Key benefits

Comply with regulations

Increase your competitive edge

Risk lifecycle management

Reduce business risk

Protect key information assets

Proven ROI

Richard Jenkinson
CEO | Interactive Medica

"We have worked with Kindus on getting ISO 27001 certified which is new territory for our company. Throughout the engagement the Kindus team have been very forthright and informative helping us to understand and learn about information security risks and opportunities for improvement."